UNN holds SERVICOM Workshop

The Service Compact with all Nigerians (SERVICOM) Unit, University of Nigeria, Nsukka recently held a SERVICOM sensitization workshop for all staff of the University at the Princess Alexandra Auditorium, UNN.

The University of Nigeria, Nsukka, Vice-Chancellor, Prof. Benjamin Ozumba, said he was elated to organize the workshop bearing in mind that SERVICOM is expected of every public servant. Stressing that the workshop would mark a turning point in the administration of the University as it hinges on ethical standards.

Prof. Ozumba reinstated that the University was keeping its own part of the Charter and urged people to know their rights while emphasizing that any memo sent to an office should be replied within 48 hours. He disclosed that SERVICOM was based on the University's core value which was "Integrity, Accountability and Transparency; where the interest of the university will be placed above all

Also, the Chairman of the occasion and Director, Information and Communication Technology (ICT) and Innovation, UNN, Dr. Olisa Okeke in his opening remarks said "our overall aim is to improve the university service delivery from the lowest to the highest cadre". He revealed that there would be key performance indicator to supervise all staff. Hence, it would be monitored for the progress of the University.

Meanwhile, the Director, SERVICOM, Prof. Chikelue Ofuebe said that SERVICOM was all about service delivery and staff welfare. Noting that the Vice-Chancellor's concern for her staff necessitated the workshop.

According to the 1st Paper presenter Corp Marshal, Federal Road Safety Corps, Nigeria, Boboye Oyeyemi, in his paper titled "Discipline: Towards an enhanced service delivery in an organization, (FRSC as a Case Study)", said that discipline was the only thing necessary to achieve any goal worth having.

other considerations. Decisions will be guided by deep sense of honesty, truth, equity and justice. The highest standard of ethical and moral values will be exhibited and encouraged".

He added that his administration would "treat everyone fairly and justly, regardless of creed, colour, gender and race/tribe".

In his words, "Discipline in an organization is the pattern of shared values, belief and rules or pattern of common behavior in the organization. Discipline is the structure and order within an individual or within a group for true cooperation, real support of the mission and the members of the team or organization".

Furthermore, he noted that organizational discipline was an essential management tool necessary for the smooth and effective functioning of the organization.

"It facilitates efficiency, streamlines the operations of the organization and helps the organization to move forward. An organization devoid of discipline would be a mess of resources and nothing more because discipline is required for any activity where people work together towards a common objective", he said.

Boboye continued that organization discipline, once instilled in the employees, would help in getting the best out of them. This would in turn lead to protection, improve performance, promote appropriate behavior, efficiency, fairness, ensure safety and peaceful behavior.

VC Unveils WAUG Mascot ... contd from pg1

Prof. Ozumba said that adequate publicity of the tournament would help showcase the rich culture of Nigeria, as well as social - economic lives of its citizens.

In a vote of thanks, the Zonal Director of Federal Radio Corporation, Enugu, Mr. Emeka Odikpo thanked the Vice-Chancellor for inviting them to the lunch, stating that he was happy to be part of the preparations and concept of the games.

He said he and other media executives had seen and believed that the University of Nigeria was ready to host the competition. "We will go and tell the world what we have seen firsthand in the University of Nigeria" the Director said.

The 13th WAUG competition was held at the University of Ilorin in 2012. More than 50 universities from different West African countries are expected to participate in the 2015 tournament at the UNN.

However, he added that in order to be effective, service should possess these attributes such as available and timely; dependable and reliable; usable and useful; credible and authentic; responsive and flexible. Hence, service delivery was a continuous cyclic process for developing and delivering user focused services.

The second paper titled "Performance appraisal and service delivery" which was delivered by Dr. Ken Anierobi from Shell Petroleum Development Company Nigeria Limited, revealed that performance and service delivery was the ability to deliver services that meet the expectations of the customer while performance appraisal was the process of assuring that services are actually delivered to the expectation of the customer.

UNN Hosts African VCs, Deans of Science, Engineering & Tech

The Vice-Chancellor of the University of Nigeria, Prof. Benjamin Chukwuma Ozumba, has announced that the University of Nigeria will host the 6th African Regional Conference of Vice-Chancellors and Deans of Science, Engineering and Technology (COVIDSET).

Prof. Ozumba made the announcement while addressing a press conference at the University of Nigeria, Enugu Campus (UNEC) on Thursday July 16th, 2015.

The ideas, according to Prof. Ozumba, would enhance Africa's global competitiveness and help in developing strategies and actions that would improve the standard of university education in the continent.

The Vice-Chancellor outlined sub-themes of the conference to include: State of Science, Engineering, Technology and Innovation (SETI) Education in African, challenges and opportunities Post 2015;

The Vice-Chancellor (7th from left), some Principal Officers of the University, and members of the LOC of COVIDSET, after VC's Press conference at UNEC.

According to him, the conference would hold at Nike Lake Resort, Enugu, from October 4th to 7th 2015 with over 350 participants expected to be in attendance.

"The University of Nigeria will be the first University in Nigeria to host such prestigious African conference in Nigeria. The conference will indeed offer us a good opportunity to show-case Nigeria and her rich potentials", he said.

The Vice-Chancellor explained that the last five COVIDSET conferences were held in Ghana (2005), South Africa (2007), Uganda (2009) South Africa (2011) and Botswana (2013).

Further, Prof. Ozumba stated that the COVIDSET 2015 would provide a platform for University leaders to crossbreed ideas and experiences on emerging trends in Science, Engineering, Technology and Innovation (SETI).

Climate Change and sustainable development: the role of research institutions and universities in Africa; making SETI relevant for youth employability Post 2015; and Research Commercialization and Higher Education Financing.

Prof Ozumba listed participants expected at the conference to include: leaders of institutions responsible for teaching research in African countries, Deans of Faculty and Heads of Academic Department in African Universities; and agencies and companies involved in the promotion of Science, Engineering and Technology in Africa.

NANS Confers Heroes Leadership Award on VC

The National Association of Nigeria Students, (NANS Zone B) recently conferred Heroes Leadership Award on the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Nigeria, Prof. Benjamin Chukwuma Ozumba.

Prof. Ozumba became the 5th distinguished Nigerian that had received the award after the likes of late Prof. Chinua Achebe, Prof Wole Shoyinka, Afe Babalola and Prof. Peter Ejiofor.

Presenting the award at the Vice-Chancellor's conference room, UNN, the Coordinator of NANS Zone- B, Comrade Okorie Ikechukwu, said that Prof. Ozumba was singled out for the award because of his contributions to the growth of education in the country.

"We can without any equivocation bear testimony to the fact that Professor Ozumba has always supported any cause that will uplift education as well as whatever that will accelerate the pace of socio-economic transformation of Nigeria", he said.

While describing the Vice-Chancellor as an apostle of positive change, the NANS Coordinator called for the involvement of Nigerian youth in governance to enable them expend their energy in nation building.

In his response, Prof Ozumba thanked NANS for the award, stating that he was happy that his contributions to the development of education in the country were recognised by students, who he described as members of his primary constituency.

The Vice-Chancellor, Who assumed office in June 2014, said he considered the award a celebration of his one year in office.

He noted that his interest in the welfare of students dated back to his undergraduate years in the University of Lagos where he made his mark as an activist.

"While serving as a Dean and the Provost, College of Medicine, I continued to fight for and protected the interest of my students", he said

The Vice-Chancellor, Prof, Benjamin Ozumba (right) receiving "Heroes Leadership Award" from the Coordinator of NANS Zone-B, Okorie Ikechukwu, at VC's

Comrade Okorie described the Vice-Chancellor as a man "who is dedicated to the pursuit of truth and fair play with the ability and patience to reconcile competing interests".

He said that NANS's confidence on Prof. Ozumba was hinged on his ability to make sacrifices for the interest of students which he demonstrated by the reduction of undergraduate and postgraduate school fees.

Prof Ozumba said his administration was making effort to improve municipal services in all the campuses of the university.

According to him, the administration had so far provided ubiquitous internet services; ensured steady flow of water; and was making plans to free the University from the national problem of erratic power supply.

Prof. Ozumba acknowledged the many problems bedevilling the Nigerian education sector; he however expressed confidence that the administration of President Mohammadu Buhari would bring succour to the sector.

UNN Secondary School holds Graduation Ceremony

The University of Nigeria Secondary School, Nsukka (UNISEC), recently held her 28th Investiture, Prize-Giving and Graduation Ceremony for the 2014/2015 session.

The ceremony, which marked the send forth of 148 graduands and the formal inauguration of new prefects took place at the University of Nigeria Secondary School Hall, Nsukka.

The Vice-Chancellor, University of Nigeria, Prof. Benjamin C. Ozumba who was represented by the Deputy Vice-Chancellor Administration, Prof. Edwin Igbokwe congratulated the graduating students for having completed their Secondary School Education.

"I wish you a better tomorrow as you pursue your dreams. Times are hard, the future is uncertain. But with God on your side, I know that tomorrow will be better", he said.

The Vice-Chancellor urged the students to be good ambassadors of the school wherever they found themselves.

Prof. Ozumba commended the Board of Governors, Chairman, Parent Teachers Association (P.T.A.), Principal and management of the school for their untiring efforts and devotion to the school. He also thanked the P.T.A for the completion of the gigantic Library building which he commissioned on July 21, 2015.

He further applauded the recipients of various academic and non-academic awards, and charged them to do their best to make sure they keep winning. He advised the new prefects to be role models to the other students and not disappoint those who elected them.

The Chairman, Board of Governors, Prof. (Mrs.) Uju Umo, who was represented by Prof. S. A. Ezeudu said that she was happy that the school had, in these past 32 years, maintained the purpose for its establishment.

"This is evident in the school's outstanding performance in both the West African Senior Certificate Examinations and the National Senior School Certificate Examinations. Indeed the school has tried her best to maintain her motto; Excellence through Honest Labour", she said.

Principal of the University of Nigeria Secondary School, Nsukka, Mrs E.A. Ohaegbu,

She also applauded the school management, teaching and non-teaching staff for their selfless efforts in maintaining the good standard of the school, while urging the graduands to uphold the values which the school has inculcated in them.

Speaking at the occasion, the Principal, Mrs. E. A. Ohaegbu revealed that in the school's 32 years of existence, it has continued to uphold its motto of 'Excellence through Honest Labour', thereby keeping alive the dreams of the founding fathers.

She noted with joy that in the past three decades of the school's existence, its academic firmament had been dotted with excellence.

According to her, on 20th July, 2015, four students of the school were honoured with gold and silver medals by the National Mathematics Centre Abuja, for their outstanding performances in 2015 edition of the National Olympiads Competition.

She also stated that in the maiden edition of the President's Inter-University Secondary Schools Debate Championship held at the University of Port-Harcourt from 20th-24th May, 2015, the school's representatives came 2nd in the Southern Zone (South East, South South and South West).

The Principal appreciated the Vice-Chancellor for providing a conducive environment which has enabled the school to survive.

She however appealed to the University Administration to come to the aid of the school in solving litany of problem ranging from the need to re-integrate the staff into the University with the attendant rights and privileges, to infrastructural decay in the school, and the dire need of school bus.

She rejoiced with the winners of the academic and non-academic prizes for their spectacular achievements and urged them not to rest on their laurels and endeavour to keep the flag flying at all times.

Highpoint of the ceremony was the presentation of a plaque to the best graduating student, Miss Ngwoke, Uloma who aspires to study Electronics Engineering at the University of Nigeria, Nsukka.

Cultural dance and choral display added colour to the ceremony.

Egbin Power Plant Lagos Commissions Project in UNN

A top leading power plant in Africa, Egbin Power Plant PLC Lagos recently commissioned and handed over a Feed Water Heater Project to the Department of Mechanical Engineering, University of Nigeria, Nsukka. The event took place at the Faculty of Engineering Building in UNN.

While commissioning the project, the Head, Media and Community Relations, Egbin Power PLC, Mr. Kingsley Okotie said "History has been made as UNN and Egbin solidify their partnership to benefit mankind and to promote the advancement of knowledge. He said, that as a company which prides itself as the single largest power generating company of Africa, it also helps to effect change in the society".

The Vice-Chancellor, University of Nigeria, Nsukka, Prof. Benjamin Chukwuma Ozumba who received the project on behalf of the University was represented by the University Council Member, Prof. Charles Igwe.

He commended the Management Board of Egbin Company for making a giant stride not only in the power sector in Sub-Saharan Africa but for also extending their magnanimity to UNN. The Vice-Chancellor also solicited for more project development in the nearest future, adding that the project would be used for lecturing and effective research.

The Head, Department of Mechanical Engineering, Engr. Dr. Stephen Nwanya emphasized that the equipment would be used in teaching power plant Engineering courses in order to convey a deeper sense of understanding of Power Plant in the Faculty.

Engr. Nwanya who expressed a sense of fulfillment said that there was hope for future robust Engineering teaching and research in the area of power station, design construction and maintenance. He also appreciated the Company on behalf of the Department and enjoined other Power Companies in Nigeria to emulate the noble example of Egbin Power Plant in assisting the academic sector to promote the educational system in Nigeria.

Prof. Iloeje Onwuamaeze, a lecturer in the Department of Mechanical Engineering explained that the Water Heater is used to raise the temperature of the water that goes into the power plant for effective use of the plant. He lauded the management of Egbin for her kind gesture while stressing that he normally takes his students on a field trip to Egbin power plant for better understanding of their courses.

UNN Vice-Chancellor's Mandate Spurs up Impact Factor Workshops

As part of the mandate of the Vice-Chancellor, University of Nigeria Nsukka, Prof. Benjamin Ozumba on Impact factor reward scheme, the Department of Political Science organized a workshop to enlighten her Post graduate students on Impact Factor writing.

The one day seminar with the theme "Advanced Research Methodology Training" held at the Continuing Education Center (C.E.C), Niger Hall, UNN". According to the Head, Department of Political Sciences, Prof Jonah Onuoha, the workshop was aimed at educating the Post Graduate students of the Department on how to carry out research and write publishable articles. He also promised to do same for staff members.

The Chairman of the Workshop and Dean, School of Post Graduate Studies, Prof. Augustine Ubachukwu revealed that writing is an art that needs to be learnt as some are more gifted than others.

According to him, "writing quality article is obtainable via adequate research training as training is the bed rock of solid article writing". While emphasizing that the reason why most Professors travel in and out of the country is because their research work speaks for them.

Meanwhile, Prof. Okechukwu Ibeanu who delivered a lecture titled "General Overview of Research Methodology" told the Post Graduate students that a Ph. D Holder has a mandate to contribute to knowledge and his discipline.

He emphasized that to be a scientist or researcher one must either have formulated a theory or tested an existing one to become eligible in the world of science. Furthermore, he enumerated that the two ways a scientist could test a theory was either through falsifying or verifying the theory.

Prof. Ibeanu mentioned that a social scientist believes that the real deal was to falsify a theory but though the end result is that scientists try to refurbish poor and weak knowledge to a better one.

Also, Rev. Fr. (Prof.) Hyacinth Ichoku in his lecture titled "Writing for Impact Factor Journals", stated that the reasons why people write for Impact factor Journals was to attract promotion, to be recognized by peers and to disseminate research findings.

Prof. Ichoku further gave hints on research guidelines when writing for Impact Factor Journals which are finding an appropriate journal for publication, knowing your readers, publishers and Editors and reading the authors instructions specified by the Journal.

VC Inaugurates TVET Research Group

A new research group, with focus on innovations in Technical and Vocational Education and Training (TVET), was recently inaugurated by the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Nigeria, Prof. Benjamin Chukwuma Ozumba.

Inaugurating the research group on-behalf of the Vice-Chancellor, the Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Administration) Prof. Edwin Igbokwe commended the Vice-Chancellor for encouraging formation of research groups in the University.

"It is no longer a one man's show but group effort" he said while applauding the group for setting the pace for formal inaugurations of research groups in the Institution.

Prof Igbokwe advised the group to always convoke short discussion sessions that would offer members opportunities to crossbreed ideas and generate research problems.

He recommended that the group should clearly define the role of each member involved in a research effort in order to avoid possible dissension that might arise from grant project execution. Prof. Hyacinth Ichoku, who represented the Chairman of Research Grant

Committee, UNN, explained that the need to motivate people to work and get results made the Vice-Chancellor to approve the release of N100, 000 as seed money to each of the over 206 research groups in the University.

He revealed that following the Vice-Chancellor's institution of reward incentives for academic publications in Thomson Reuter's Impact Factor Journals, about 32 academics have published in the journals within the last few months.

Prof. Ichoku congratulated the TVET Research Group on formation of the group and urged them to pursue their objective with passion.

Coordinator of the Innovations in TVET Research Group, Prof Emmanuel Osinem, said the prompting of the Vice-Chancellor has led to the formation and revival of many research groups in the Institution.

Members of TVET Research Group, Holding the Microphone is the Deputy Vice-Chancellor (Administration) Prof. Edwin Igbokwe, who represented the Vice-Chancellor at the formal inauguration of the Group

"This is a significant shift from one man show to more corporate or semi corporate group efforts which funders are more inclined to. This in no small measure will kindle efforts of many scholars, thus enhancing volume and quality of researches and publications including outreach services", the Coordinator said.

Prof Osinem stated that the mission of the group was to "become a leading research group in transforming formal and informal TVET practices through system innovation generation".

He said that although the group was formally inaugurated recently by the Vice-Chancellor; it had already submitted five proposals to potential funders in the last few months.

Prof Osinem, outlined some of the objectives of the group to include: to undertake researches in TVET systems innovation, programme delivery and best practices in skills development/training in the formal and non-informal settings; to conduct skills gap analysis of emerging occupations for evaluation of novel training programmes, and to carry out TVET policy analysis and dialogue with stakeholders.

The Coordinator explained that membership of the group was open to interested scholars within and outside the University, provided the person would be willing to initiate and possibly supervise a project.

"Members have equal opportunities in evolving ideas in developing projects while the originator becomes the leader/principal investigator in the project", he added.

He listed some funding opportunities open to the group to include: Higher Education Academic Network, UNESCO-UNEVOC e-forum, Erasmus Mundus Academic Mobility Network, and Innovation in Vocational Education and Training (IVET) network.

UNN Strategises for Global Competitiveness in the 21st Century

In order to improve global competitiveness among staff, the management of the University of Nigeria has organized a workshop tagged "Process Change Initiative" for some senior administrative staff of the University.

The workshop which could be described as a history making process in the life of the present University administration, kicked off on Thursday, July 2nd, 2015, at the Cemac ultra-modern Hall, UNEC. The workshop was organized by the Servicom Unit, office of the Vice-Chancellor.

There is no doubt that this idea must have come as a result of Prof. Ozumba's deep thought on how to make difference in the University's governance and also give members of the University Community value for their mandate

In an address at the event, the chairman of the occasion and the Director of the Innovation Centre and ICT Dr. Olisa Okeke, said, "The issue we have today is an idea that is welcome. There is need for reinventing of establishments in view of the ICT era."

He advised the participants at the workshop to make optimal use of the opportunity before them just as he thanked the Vice-Chancellor who did not only make the training possible, but also found time to be around for the workshop's opening ceremony.

Declaring the workshop open, Prof. Ozumba said among other things "I am delighted that this University has succeeded in mounting this training programme. It is relevant for driving the positive transformations we envisaged and are implementing to make our University relevant and competitive in the 21st century.

With particular reference to the participants, the Vice-Chancellor noted "I want to emphasize that your nomination as participants in the workshop is in recognition of your centrality in driving the positive transformation that the present administration is engendering in the University. Consequently, you are to accord your participation in the workshop the due seriousness with which the University views the programme. As a result, you are not to embarrass the facilitator and the SERVICOM Unit, indeed, the University, through absenteeism, abandonment of sessions, non-execution of assignments or any delinquencies whatsoever... I look forward to witnessing a trail of innovation for efficiency and excellence in your duty posts after this training.

The Vice-Chancellor further reiterated that four more sessions would be held before activities in the programme terminates

In Conclusion, Prof. Ozumba identified the objectives of the Process Change Initiative as follows:

Helping you to be a better manager of your limited resources;

Enabling you to identify key processes in your unit that contribute value to the University;

Empowering you on how to identify problem spots or bottlenecks, how to solve problems and how to effectively implement your solutions by effectively managing change.

Equipping you to effectively manage and control costs, create more value to your target customers, and manage change.

Senator Utazi Pledges to Speak for UNN in NASS

Senator representing Enugu North Federal Constituency, Hon. Chukwuka Utazi, has promised to ensure that the University of Nigeria gets the allocation it deserves from the National Assembly. Senator Utazi made the promise on Friday, 10th July 2015, when he paid a courtesy visit on the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Nigeria.

He said he had an obligation to speak for the University because the Institution is located in his constituency, and also because he is an alumnus of the University.

Hon. Utazi said his return visit to the University was to thank members of the university community for the support they gave him during his electioneering campaign, and to reaffirm his commitment to fulfilling his campaign promises to both the University and members of his constituency.

He pleaded with the Vice-Chancellor to consider Nsukka as a catchment in terms of admission and employment opportunities.

Principal Officers of the UNN, led by the Vice-Chancellor, Prof Ozumba (4th From right), Senator Chukwuka Utazi (5th from right) and his entourage, after their courtesy visit on the VC, UNN

In his response, the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Nigeria, Prof. Benjamin Chukwuma Ozumba, thanked Senator Utazi for coming; he noted that the visit of the Senator was a deviation from the norm of some Nigerian politicians who often neglect to show appreciation to members of their constituency after they are elected.

"Your gesture shows that democracy in the country is getting matured" the Vice-Chancellor said.

Prof. Ozumba intimated the Senator that they were many on-going projects in the University which required funding. He also told the Senator of his Intention to erect a befitting Senate Building for the University pending the availability of funds. The Vice-Chancellor extended his hand of fellowship to the Senator and urged him to always speak for the University in the Red Carpet Chamber.

29,985 candidates shortlisted for UNN's PUTME

No fewer than 21,580 candidates who chose the University of Nigeria as first choice in the 2015 Unified Tertiary Matriculation Examination (UTME) are expected to participate in the University's Computer Based Test (CBT) scheduled to hold from 11th to 21st August 2015.

The Chairman of the University's Entrance Board, Prof. Thomas Mmuoemne. Okonkwo, said the figure represented the total number of candidates who selected the University as their first choice and scored at least 200 in the UTME.

Prof. Okonkwo explained that JAMB had earlier shortlisted about 11, 585 candidates for the University, but the figure increased following Federal Government's override of JAMB's reposting policy.

On why the University of Nigeria choose to conduct Computer-Based Test for the candidates, Prof Okonkwo said it was cost effective, convenient, and in tune with advancement in modern technology

"The University of Nigeria has the facilities: the holding capacity of our ICT park is above 1000, so we can conduct the screening exercise for at least 4000 candidates in four hours", he said.

On the level of preparation for the screening, the Director of ICT and Innovation Centre, UNN, Dr Olisa Okeke, said all was set for the CBT exercise which the University would be conducting for the first time..

Dr Okeke said although the University had made provision for over 11, 000 candidates earlier sent by JAMB, the increase in number would not affect the smooth conduct of the exercise.

He said that over 1000 laptop computers connected to the internet had been provided for the screening, stating that his staff would be on ground to address any complain that might arise from the candidates.

According to Information posted in the University's website, the screening exercise would be conducted in two batches.

The Batch 1, would be for candidates, whose names had appeared in the first list earlier sent by JAMB, while Batch B would be for those whose names were included in the second list. Both lists can be accessed in the University's website-www.unn.edu.ng,

It also stated that registration for candidates whose names fall under Batch 1 would end on 7th August 2015, while their screening would commence from 11th to 14th August, 2015.

Registration for candidates in Batch 2 would end on 12th of August, while their screening would start from 17th to 21st of August 2015.

Inya, Agha E.

Schedule for 2015 UNN Post UTME

The 2015/2016 POST-UTME screening holds from Tuesday 11th - Friday 14th August and Monday 17th - Friday 21st August, 2015.

There will be two batches namely;

- Batch 1- Candidates whose names were originally sent by JAMB and Registration ends on 7th August, 2015.

- Batch 2 Candidates who were omitted in the original list sent from JAMB but selected UNN as first choice and scored above 200 and Registration ends on 12th August, 2015.

Batch 1 will take the exam from 11th - 14th August, 2015.

Batch 2 will take the exam from 17th - 21st August, 2015.

Candidates are expected to Re-print their Acknowledgement slip to get their exam date and time.
