Note from the Editor

As earlier indicated, this issue commemorates the twenty-fifth anniversary of Okike, perhaps the oldest African literary journal.

The interviews constitute the "Introduction" to this issue of Okike. These and the articles on Nigerian literature, with the reviews of works by young Nigerian authors, make this issue a very rich source material for all teachers and students of African literature.

This collection is certainly a befitting memento for the twenty-fifth anniversary of Okike.
